Toxic Substance Identification keeps your employees healthy.

Asbestos, Lead, Mold, and other toxic substances are very real hazards that threaten your employee's health and well-being. Areas containing these hazardous materials must be clearly identified at all approaches so that employees know to take the necessary protective steps before entering. By posting Toxic Substance Identification from National Marker, you help protect your employees' most important asset: their health.

The state of California requires clear warnings for substances that cause cancer or have reproductive toxicity.
